What is this product?

Type

OTC - Improver Forward Buyer

Term

The length of an Improver Forward will depend on how long you wish to have the right to exchange the currency. The term will be agreed on before you enter into an Improver Forward. An Improver Forward is a bilateral agreement that cannot be ordinarily terminated unilaterally by either you or Danske Bank.

Objectives

The objective of this product is to agree to exchange a currency at a known worst-case fixed exchange rate, while allowing beneficial price fluctuations within a specified exchange rate interval and time period. The exchange rate interval is determined by an improver forward rate and a trigger rate. The trigger period, during which the trigger rate can be activated, is either the full length of the option period [American], a period within the option period [Window] or at the expiration time [European]. If the spot rate is at or above the trigger rate in the trigger period, the benefit from a better exchange rate is lost.

In order to get the right to benefit from exchanging a leveraged notional amount when this is beneficial to you, you agree to exchange the nominal amount at a less favorable exchange rate than the rate you normally would exchange if you were to enter into an ordinary foreign exchange forward agreement with delivery on the same settlement date.

Improver Forwards are binding agreements to buy a variable amount in a specific currency at the time the agreement is entered into (the notional amount/leveraged notional amount) at a price (the improver forward rate) and on a specific time (the expiration time) to be agreed upon between the buyer and the seller.

At the time of expiration, the following scenarios apply:

Market spot rate at or below the improver forward rate: The investor has an obligation to buy the notional amount at the improver forward rate.

Market spot rate above the improver forward rate and the trigger rate breached in the trigger period: The investor has an obligation to buy the notional amount at the improver forward rate.

Market spot rate above the improver forward rate and the trigger rate not breached in the trigger Period: The investor has an obligation to buy the notional amount at the improver forward rate and a right to buy the leveraged notional amount at the improver forward rate.

The terms set out below are illustrative of the terms of an Improver Forward, but are not the exact terms you agree with Danske Bank. The exact terms will be set out in each individual trade confirmation.

The illustrative terms are used for subsequent performance scenarios and calculation of costs.

The product terms provide that if certain exceptional events occur [1] Danske Bank may adjust the product and/or [2] Danske Bank or you may terminate the product early. These exceptional events in question are specified in the product terms and relate principally to the underlying, the product and conditions pertaining to you or Danske Bank. The return (if any) you receive on such early termination is likely to be different from that received in the scenarios described above.

- (II) are in the position to bear losses that potentially may be equal to the amount invested.

What are the risks and what could I get in return?Risk Indicator

The summary risk indicator is a guide to the level of risk of this product compared to other products. It shows how likely it is that the product will lose money because of movements in the markets or because we are not able to pay you.

We have classified this product as 7 out of 7, which is the highest risk class. Be aware of currency risk. You will receive payments in a different currency, so the final return you will get depends on the exchange rate between the two currencies. This risk is not considered in the indicator shown above. This product does not include any protection from future market performance so you could lose some or all of your investment. If we are not able to pay you what is owed, you could lose your entire investment.

Performance Scenarios

The figures shown include all the costs of the product itself, but may not include all the costs that you pay to your advisor or distributor. The figures do not take into account your personal tax situation, which may also affect how much you get back.

What you will get from this product depends on future market performance. Market developments in the future are uncertain and cannot be accurately predicted.

The scenarios shown are illustrations based on results from the past and on certain assumptions. Markets could develop very differently in the future.

The stress scenario shows what you might get back in extreme market circumstances.

This product cannot be easily cashed in. If you exit the investment earlier than the recommended holding period you may have to pay extra costs.

The favorable, moderate and unfavorable scenarios have been calculated using a model to generate possible future outcomes based on the underlying assets' past performance and represent the 90th, 50th and 10th best outcomes, respectively. The stress scenario represents an outcome based on stressed market conditions.
